st pierre is two time and current champion of the ufc s most desired and hotly contested weight class he has forced other fighters to go to great lengths in an effort to unseat him but he s more than that he s ramping up the popularity of the sport itself and the culture around it st pierre is a marketer s dream he s handsome charismatic and funny in a self effacing way he s canadian fluently bilingual came up from a difficult background with a few personal tragedies and has never been involved with drugs or crime or had his love life make any headlines he s the man that the ufc is going to ride on in its quest to transform itself from niche market to mainstream it s already beginning while other ufc fighters have sponsors like gyms and equipment suppliers st pierre has signed multi million dollar deals with brands such as under armour and is even following in the footsteps of such luminaries as michael jordan peyton manning and sidney crosby as a spokesman for gatorade fighter details the life of st pierre how his talent hard work and perseverance have paid off handsomely and how his star has risen in the psyche of mixed martial arts fans around the world it describes how he is held in high esteem by a huge number of canadians despite the fact that his profession is looked down upon by many and is even illegal in several us states and canadian provinces st pierre s ascent and fame have become a democratizing force pressuring the establishment to take mixed martial arts and ultimate fighting seriously in ways that it would not have without him what does it mean for a cinematic work to be chinese does it refer specifically to a work s subject or does it also reflect considerations of language ethnicity nationality ideology or political orientation such questions make any single approach to a vast field like chinese cinema difficult at best accordingly the oxford handbook of chinese cinemas situates the term more broadly among various different phases genres and distinct national configurations while taking care to address the consequences of grouping together so many disparate histories under a single banner offering both a platform for cross disciplinary dialogue and a mapping of chinese cinema as an expanded field this handbook presents thirty three essays by leading researchers and scholars intent on yielding new insights and new analyses using three different methodologies chapters in part i investigate the historical periodizations of the field through changing notions of national and political identity all the way from the industry s beginnings in the 1920s up to its current forms in contemporary hong kong taiwan and the global diaspora chapters in part ii feature studies centered on the field s taxonomical formalities including such topics as the role of the chinese opera in technological innovation the political logic of the maoist film and the psychoanalytic formula of the kung fu action film finally in part iii focus is given to the structural elements that comprise a work s production distribution and reception to reveal the broader cinematic apparatuses within which these works are positioned taken together the multipronged approach supports a wider platform beyond the geopolitical and linguistic limitations in existing scholarship expertly edited to illustrate a representative set of up to date topics and approaches the oxford handbook of chinese cinemas provides a vital addition to a burgeoning field still in its formative stages in the martial arts cinema of the chinese diaspora kin yan szeto critically examines three of the most internationally famous martial arts film artists to arise out of the chinese diaspora and travel far from their homelands to find commercial success in the world at large ang lee john woo and jackie chan positing the idea that these filmmakers success is evidence of a cosmopolitical awareness arising from their cross cultural ideological engagements and geopolitical displacements szeto demonstrates how this unique perspective allows these three filmmakers to develop and act in the transnational environment of media production distribution and consumption beginning with a historical retrospective on chinese martial arts films as a diasporic film genre and the transnational styles and ideologies of the filmmakers themselves szeto uses case studies to explore in depth how the forces of colonialism chinese nationalism and western imperialism shaped the identities and work of lee woo and chan addressed in the volume is the groundbreaking martial arts swordplay film that achieves global success ang lee s crouching tiger hidden dragon and its revelations about hollywood representations of asians as well as concepts of male and female masculinity in the swordplay film tradition also investigated is the invigoration of contemporary gangster thriller and war films by john woo whose combination of artistic and historical contexts has contributed to his global success szeto then dissects chan s mimetic representation of masculinity in his films and the influences of his chinese theater and martial arts training on his work szeto outlines the similarities and differences between the three artists films especially their treatments of gender sexuality and power she concludes by analyzing their films as metaphors for their working conditions in the chinese diaspora and hollywood and demonstrating how through their works lee woo and chan communicate not only with the rest of the world but also with each other far from a book simply about three filmmakers the martial arts cinema of the chinese diaspora investigates the transnational nature of films the geopolitics of culture and race and the depths of masculinity and power in movies szeto s interdisciplinary approach calls for nothing less than a paradigm shift in the study of chinese diasporic filmmakers and the embodiment of cosmopolitical perspectives in the martial arts genre
